Misty-water color memories of
The way we were.

We left behind
Smiles we gave to one another

Of the way we were
Can it be, was it all so simple then
Or has time rewritten every line

The Eisenhower Chapter of the National Honor Society represents a group of students showing outstanding qualities of leadership, scholarship, character, and service. Considering these the teachers choose the new members. Mrs. Ruth Geeslin, the clubs advisor, guides the group in community projects. The society inducted new members, contributed a Christmas tree to the student body, raked leaves, sold candy, sponsored scholarships, aided the AAUW, helped the Special Olympics, and Hosted a tea for the faculty and parents.

Being a Senior meant . . . Changing from followers to leaders . . . Wrestling over political problems of the day . . . Building up the bank account to accommodate future plans . . . Anticipating the inevitable draft . . . Being confronted with a barrage of college applications, entrance exams, and financial arrangements . . . Exchanging pictures with friends . . . Frequent trips to the counselors' office . . . Working over hot coals at the Chicken Fry while enticing aromas filled the air . . . Ordering announcements to inform others of the long-awaited graduation day . . . Filling out tax return form 1040 . . . Sprucing oneself up for Prom . . . Taking the big step into a world of utter confusion . . . Painful remembrances as the year came to an end.

Everyday is a new challenge; no two sunsets are the same. The people we talked to and laughed with yesterday are different today. All the small incidents that we pass off as trivial, all the careless remarks and foolish things that we do, they all leave their mark. What would life be without change? How could we ever grow? Let's not be afraid of progress! After all, we can help shape tomorrow by smiling at someone today!

Being a Junior meant . . . Visualizing oneself in Puritan times while absorbed in the actions of The Crucible . . . Scraping up money to pay for the class rings . . . Comparing the style of Emerson to that of Thoreau by analyzing their poems . . . Freezing in the auditorium, while eavesdropping on the secrets of the past . . . Hearing about various vocational opportunities on Career Day . . . Completing History worksheets used to further the awareness of man . . . Studying all night for a test, only to discover it had been postponed . . . Looking into the future educational possibilities on College Day . . . Putting on a Prom to be remembered.

Dedication to Mr. R. E. Warren

Mr. R. E. Warren has served as principal of Brownwood High Scho since 1966. The students know him as a man who performs his job we Mr. Warren is also known as a friend to both the faculty and the studen We gladly dedicate our 1980-1981 yearbook to this highly respected ma Everyone will miss him next year and in the future years. Thank you, M Warren, for being an excellent principal for the past fifteen years.

Mr. Blackburn

Our Vice-Principal, Royce Blackburn, is a very hard-working, dedicated man who takes his work seriously. Mr. Blackburn's job often becomes difficult when he must be firm, yet understanding. While being in a position of authority, he is also a friend to both the student body and the faculty. This has earned him great respect from the students, teachers, and staff at Brownwood High School.

Shirley West

Nurse: Mrs. Carol Crouch
Aide: Mrs. Bohuslav

Alisa Treadway, Salina Thorsguard, Sheri Hipsher, Janie Jarvis, Julie Jordan, Mrs. West, and Linda Watson.

We, the students at Brownwood High School, appreciate the fine job the counselors have done this year. Mr. Stegemoller works very hard at being a friend as well as an excellent counselor to the students. Mrs. Jones also does a superb job at organizing the vocational programs for Brownwood High. With out the help of Mrs. Shirley West, though, the counselors would be loaded with paper work.

The nurse, Mrs. Crouch, and her aid Mrs. Bohuslav are to be commended for their job in keeping the students at Brownwood High School healthy.

BHS Opens Doors for Diana

Today Diana Parker beams and fields questions from her wheel chair. She is an eager, job-seeking graduate. Three years ago she enrolled at BHS from a narrowly-limited-institutional life; consequently, academically and socially, her world has expanded a thousandfold. Diana is in awe of "how much is still out there" and she brightly expresses her gratitudes daily thus earning her nickname of "Sunshine."

As the sap rose in the tree
so we began the year
by rising to express ourselves.

Up into the trunk and branches
from the sturdy roots
we all took our places.

We were not stationary, for we adjusted and adopted
and brought variety
an ever changing
phenomenon.

Through the year we lived and thrived,
thrusting deep into the ground for sustenance.
reaching always upward to new heights,
and bearing fruit in our own time.

Each person an individual branching out from each other,
sharing in the unity
of being one, yet many.

For it takes many to be complete,
none more or less important:
each a vital function,
each adding his uniqueness,
each making life possible.

Each of us have branched out
among new ideas,
new persons,
new truths.

In branching out
we have touched each other
we have been a part of one another.

We branched out and made
each other possible —
and the whole a reality.

Altogether we have been one
and always will be.

For as long as the image exists
the reality lasts forever.
